311 NEW POLICEMEN, 700 MORE NEEDED

Commissioner Greene Has Used All the Money Available and Must Now Wait Until Legislation Is Secured.

As a result of investigation of the system of posts of police duty in Greater New York orders were issued to-day that will take about 700 policemen out of the Borough of Manhattan and place them in other boroughs. In addition, 311 new policemen, who were given certificates of appointment to-day, were assigned to posts in Queens, Brooklyn and Richmond, and Commissioner Greene says that to properly patrol the city 700 new policemen are needed immediately.

The investigation of the system of posts of police duty in Greater New York was made by Deputy Commissioners Ebsen and Piper and Chief Inspector Cortright. They have been at work on it since June. They found that in Manhattan there were hundreds of posts so short that a policeman might almost expect to be sent to another borough. Manhattan posts are now uniform in length.

In the Borough of the Bronx it was found that no change was necessary, but in Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond appalling conditions were discovered. There are posts in Brooklyn so long that for one man to cover them is impossible. Hundreds of these long posts were shortened, so much so that 1,000 additional men have been ordered to the three boroughs outside of Manhattan and the Bronx.

Six additional mounted men have been detailed to the borough of Queens, eight to the borough of Richmond and fourteen to the borough of Brooklyn. And still there are more than five hundred posts that are inadequately patrolled because of the lack of men.

There is no chance of getting the 700 additional men asked for just now. Commissioner Greene has spent all the money the Board of Estimate allowed him. It will be necessary to wait until after Jan. 1, when legislative action permitting the expense of employing so many more men can be taken.

The 311 probationary patrolmen received their full appointment by Commissioner Greene in the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory. He was assisted by Chief Inspector Moses Cortright—to whom the Commissioner alluded in his speech to the men as the "honest cop"—and Capt. Stephen O'Brien, with Sgt. William Bailey and Place, who have been instructing the new policemen.

Commissioner Greene's Speech. After the men had received their equipment, including guns, accoutrements, they were drawn up in platoons around the Commissioner and the oaths were given them. Then the Commissioner said:

"Men, there are three requirements for a good policeman—courage, honesty and intelligence. You will meet many dangers, risking your lives to subduing persons, stopping runaways, making arrests at all times and in making arrests, at times. The New York police force has never been in times of danger and you must not sulky the record."

Avoid Temptations. "You will be subjected to great temptations in the discharge of your duty, and I warn you to do your full, honest duty. If you fail, if you succumb to these temptations, you will certainly be found out and dismissed in disgrace. You must know when you should make an arrest, and you must know your authority. You owe nobody for your appointment but yourselves. I was satisfied with your previous work."

Turning to Inspector Cortright, who stood by blushing, the Commissioner said:

Cortright's "Proud Title." "For thirty years this policeman has held the reputation of being an 'honest cop.' It is a proud title. It is the head of the uniformed force because he knows the duty of a 'cop' every moment and is honest."

When the Commissioner alluded to the fact that the men owed their appointments to no one but themselves, he said: "Let's see all cops at the old price—make $1.00 a day and they didn't have to give up a cent!"

The new policemen received their assignments and will report their station-houses for duty at 4 o'clock.

KAISER'S DOUBLE HAD NO MONEY

Marriage Agency Told a Gullible Widow that He Owned a Patent Worth the Trifle of $400,000.

A matrimonial agency marriage that did not produce happiness was told of in the Yorkville Court to-day by Mrs. Selma Peters, of No. 188 Second avenue, in testifying against her husband, Dr. Powell Peters, whom she charges with abandonment. He left home a month ago, she said, and has refused to return.

Mrs. Peters came to the United States from Germany five years ago. She was then Mrs. Grate and her husband was a man of education and refinement. They went to California, where he died. After his estate was settled up she found herself in the possession of $6,000. With this sum she came to New York.

Double of the Kaiser. She was not averse to marrying again and visited a matrimonial agent who told her that he had a list of a chemist who owned an invention worth $400,000.

008. The agent said that the resemblance of this chemist to Emperor William was most striking. Being very anxious to meet the double of Emperor William Mrs. Grate asked for an introduction. She said that to get it she was compelled to pay $500.

The likeness was apparent and Mrs. Grate married Dr. Peters after three weeks of courtship on Jan. 31, 1903. At that time she had a furnished flat at No. 19 West Sixty-fifth street.

He Had No Money. Her husband volunteered to get her a better home, but said he had no money. She alleges that she furnished the home, bought his clothes, gave him spending money and provided for him generally until her money was all gone.

When she objected to his pawning her clothes and jewelry she says he left her. Dr. Peters said the reason he was not supporting his wife was because he was out of a job. He offered to support her as soon as he could get work.

The Magistrate placed him under bonds to pay $10 a week, and as he could not secure a bondman he was locked up.

CAR CLEANER KIL... D. Charles O'Brien, a car cleaner, employed in the car barns at Sixth avenue and Fifth street, was at work in the dark on Wednesday night about 10 o'clock when a car in charge of Louis Bolke, of No. 210 Third avenue, entered the barn and struck O'Brien. The injured man died at Roosevelt Hospital to-day. Bolke was arrested.

ROOSEVELT GUIDE IN INSANE ASYLUM

Man Who Drove Him Sixteen Miles in Record Time Night of McKinley's Death Now Suffers from Dementia.

Michael Cronin, the Adirondack guide who on the night President McKinley died drove Mr. Roosevelt sixteen miles to North Creek in record time, is now an inmate of the State Asylum for the Insane. He is suffering from dementia, but is expected to recover.

"Mike" Cronin is one of the best known guides in the Adirondacks and probably the most skillful driver in the mountainous regions of the State. Time and again he has made record rides with distinguished guests who were hastily summoned from their outings by emergency.

In the night he dashed along the mountain road with President Roosevelt, making sixteen miles in one hour and forty-three minutes. He knew that President McKinley was dead, but kept the news from the Vice-President until the station at North Creek was reached. Speaking of the ride the old guide said:

"It was the darkest night I ever saw. I could not even see my horse except where the light of the lantern fell on them. The only words Mr. Roosevelt spoke during the entire ride were: 'Keep up the pace, and I did.'"
